OXFORD'S GROV ING DEMOCRA_OY.

The spirit of "caste has commonly been associated with the reputation of Oxford; but if w take the recent confessions of a work man's son this haughty goddess has described her shrine. There are gome who say that this spirit is invading American colleges. Has she become a homeless wanderer and is knocking at any hospitable door? At all events this Oxford man, "H. A." whose confessions appear in the Manchester Guardian, asserts that, " class prejudice hardly existed at all" for his own college., With few exceptions he was on the most friendly footing with all the men of his own year and with most of the men next above and below hime Cliques he admits, "but they are not formed on class lines."

Then, too, there is "at Oxford a strong and fereible minority who to some extent do really justify the vehemont attacks made upon them from the foot of the Martyr's Memorial, on Sunday evenings by fanatical bocialists." But this man sees also "extremists of the rich, just as the vehement revolutionary is the extremist of the poor."

This writer, whose words are quoted in-The American Education Review (Now York), entered Oxford at the age of twenty nine, after having taught in an elementary school. The standard of life, so much higher than he had proviously known, caused him not only dismay, but repulsion. He describes his first "hall dinner":

"Solid silver spoons and forks! What wicked waste! A clean napkin every night! A four or five-course dinner," and only once in my life had Texperienced and evening dinner. Truly I was a commoner! Opposite sat a lord's son; by my side the son of a famous writer; nour me were the descendants of historical families. was poor, shy, nervous, sore in spirit, along as I had never been before. It was a new world, and I was half afraid. As I returned alone through" the shadowy quadranglepast the ancient building up to my room-I felt heartsick and miserable. Nor was the warm selitude of my room at first any antidote. It was full of ghosts. Famous men'had lived in it-at least one great poet. one famous historian. Other rooms on the staircase had housed great statesmen, literary men, poets, thinkers." Why, then, was I here? Was it all a dream? Or was it really true that the old hard life was behind me, that I, too, was at last given the chance for which I had craved, for which so many better, more worthy men than I drave in vain down below there in the schools, the factories, the foundries? I didn't understand servants! It was so strange to have a man at one's beck and call. Nor did it seem right that I who had always waited on myself, cleaned my boots, done odd jobs about the house, should have all these things done for me. But when at 7.30 on my first morning at college the good man came 484 into my bedroom, drew up the blind, poured cold water into the shallow bath. and said. 'Half-past seven, sir,' then indeed, I was shocked! He evidently expected 'me to have a cold bath; to sprinkle myself with icy water on that keen October morning-a most unheard-of proceeding ! A further souse of strangeness a filicted me in the possession of two rooms, a bedder and a sitter, the latter a large double-windowed from very comfortably furnished, and with the walls all panelled not with onk but painted wood. There were no pictures-those I could provide it I wanted-and from one of the pile of advertisements received during the next few days I learned that pictures could be hired by the term. But having pictures was out of the question. By some oversight the THE HONGKONG ELECTRIC CO., college authorities had omitted to notify me that I must provide my own table linen, cutlery, etc. "Is it necessary to say that such expenditure caused me the greatest of all my discomforts? During the first few days I was maddened by the way in which 'fresh men' were throwing money about. Pic. tures, cushions, fancy articles, pipes, clothing, baths, books, wines, tobacco, cigarettes -to, say nothing of the linen and cutlerywere all being bought in huge quantities at fancy prices. To me, whose purse had always been but poorly furnished, whose career nine years ago at a day trainingcollege had been a time of poverty so great that frequently two meals a day had to suffice; that for a week at a time I was absolutely penniless; that for Saturday night after Saturday night I was glad to carn four shillings for playing the piano in a certain public-house; ... to me this lavish expenditure seemed at first not mere-He soon began to form social connec-

He was the son of an extremely wealthy man; he had a princely allowance from his father; he came from a famous public school; And in spite of my forcible interjection of the word 'Rubbish t' in spite of the little argument I could bring to bear on his statement, he was evidently depressed by reflection on his own-idleness and wealth; Nor was this the only occasion on which men like him have said the same sort of thing to or about me. In fact, I have been amused, astounded, even provoked to find that in my own college were men who gave me a sort of halo, and approached me with the diffidence I confess I had felt toward them, merely because I was supposed to be, 'a real live working man who had som life, and had stroggled up to Oxford just as the story-book young man does." AMOY NOTES

From our own Correspondents.) DEATH OF DR OTTE.

AMOY, April 15. It is beyond our feeble mortal sense and limited human vision, to understand or fathem in anyway the workings of the Divine Will. It is only when we are brought face to face with death, especially the death of those neurest and dearest to VALUABLE HOUSEROLD us, that we realise the inexprableness of the will of God. and "we are overwhelmed almost, with feelings of pitiful anger; and our minds become numbed when we remember our helplessness in the face of the stern uncompromising facts of life and. death. Doctor John. Otte passed away at 9 o'clock last night. Thursday, after 3 short days of illness. The cause of death was pireumonic plague, and the doctors in attendance were almost powerless from the first. Dr Otte took to his bed on Monday night, and the disease was of such deadly virility that on Thursday night it had claimed its victim. On Wednesday of last week, Dr Otte attended a case of pneumonic plague over in Amoy city, and without doubt caught infection on that occasion. Everyone knew Dr Otte, both Chinese and foreigners alike, and to know him was to respect and admire him. He was the most unselfish of men, and this unsolf-hness was his most wonderful and lovable possession. He never spared himself, and was ever ready and willing to go out of his way to help those in need, whether in spirit or in body.

Or Otte arrived in Amoy in 1888, and has laboured here for over 22 years. He planned, built and permanently established the Hope and Wilhelmina Hospitals on Kulangsu, the funds for the cost being almost totally collected by him-self, and his devoted work and endless devotion in connection with these Hespitals. will ever make his name remembered and beloved. He lived very close to God, and Him who he so faithfully served on earth has now seen fit to call him to Himself. He served his fellow men, not counting the cost to himself, and we honour and revere him with hearts very full of praise and gratitude for so great and noble a life. Our prayers go up for those left behind, his wife and children at home in the States.

May the God of all; comfort take pity on them, and bless and heal their bruised and broken hearts. only been a few isolated cases of plague, and so far the scourge is purely endemic. The continued absence of rain makes the way easier for an outbreak, but I trust we may escupe this year. The U.S.A." Asiatic Squadron arrived in port at 2.30 p.m. on Thursday afternoon. the vessels being the Charleston, the Cleveland, the Chattanooga and the Callao. Two Chinese cruisers are also here to receive the visitors, the Hai-Chen and the Hai-Che.

Ceylon papers contain fuller accounts of the speech which Mr Roosevelt delivered before the Cairo University and which has been Appointed our AGENTS in Hongaroused so much resentment among the kong. Young Egypt partisans. He emphasised that true education was not a matter of curriculum, but of wisdom and of sincerity of character which was more important than mental subtlety.. This was true of nations as well as of individuals. Selfgovernment was a matter not of decades, but of generations. It was no more possible for anyone to give self-government by a paper constitution than to give an individual self-help. It was essential in the educational process to cultivate a spirit condemning every form of evil and hatred. especially hatred based on religion or race. The murder of Boutros Pasha, he declared, was the greatest calamity to Egypt. The type of man being turned out in the assassin is a type alien to good citizenship. He stands on a pinnacle of infamy. These apologising for or condoning him occupy the same bad eminence-780 Whether the crime be political, or industrial or whatever the creed of the perpetrator, in the long run it will bo equally damaging to the cause which the author professes to promote.

THE CHANGSHA RIOTS. reputation among foreigners. "A mountainous region, yet comprising within its area four river basins, draining into the gradually diminishing Tungting lake, it was for a lengthy period of its history practicable roads, to segregate the inhabitants' into small communities, imperfectly acquainted with each other. The number of local dialects is astonishthough there may be strife of tongues course Peking will be held responsible among the 21,000,000 people dumped down on its $3,000 square miles of territory. Hunan is as one man in entertaining rabid dislike for the foreigner. The Hunanese, too, are a turbulent, hot-headed race; difficult to govern, implacable, like "all mounmincers, in their hatreds, and very liable to rise in sudden spurts of anger against their rulers, The post of Chinese or Manchu official in Hunan can scarcely be said to be attractive to man of peace-loving ways, for from the Governor down to the most junior appointed to represent that organization in expectant Taotai the fear of the people's wrath, is an ever present apparition, materially tempering the enjoyment of had less to say in the internal governing Changsha, the scene of the recent riots, wealthy city and the home of many retired officials, stands on the right bank of the Siang, sixty miles above the new mouth. The Sieng flows into, the shallow Tungting like, which communicates with the Yangtze. It is along this route that t ravellers approach Changsha by water and down this riverine highway float the immense timber rafts which form one of the big tradal products of Hunan.

run in summer between Hankow and Changsha, but at this season of the year the water is low and native junks alone can get through Tungting lake and up the Siang. The estensible cause of the recent riots was the refusal of the magistrates to forbid the export of rice from the Province. According, to popular rumour the possibility of famine is by no means remote in Hunan this PERFECTION OF TOUCH year, and the farmers and pensants

therefore joined with the townspeople in demanding an edict, prohibiting daily. the sale of rice outside the province. Failing to obtain this from the officials, who were themselves deeply quanged in the rice trade, they rose in their wrath and besieged the Governor in his Yam in

In such a place as Changsha it w as not difficult, once the mob was a .oused, to turn the rising against the foreigners living in the city-for, by so doing they were making m'atters worse for the hated officials and soon Consulates, Customs and missionary buildings were going up in flames, and the foreigners were ileeing for their lives. The officials Secra to have been quite able to prevent any bloodshed, and but for the unfortunate collision between H.M.S. Thistle and a junk, while the former was endeavouring to push through the shallow waters to the rescue of the threatened foreigners, all would have reached place of safety without further mishap. On the junk, however, was Bishop PEREz and three Spanish Augustinian friars, and the collision resulted most

WHAT IS AN OPIUM DIVANT

Both magistrates at the Police Courts have dealt with cases in which natives have been charged with keeping opium divans. The case which came before Mr J. R. Wood was one from Hunghom, in respect of which it came out in evidence that there was no fee charged for the use of the premises and no opium sold there. The smokers, however, had been in the habit of leaving the dross behind after smoking their pipes, and the police considered this as equivalent to the payment of a fee. Chief Excise Officer Hoggarth contended 23 of 1909 did not apply as the section under which the warrants were issued made no provision for the seizure of dress opium or its forfaiture. If the leaving of dross behind meant the equivalent of the payment of a fee then most of the Chinese restaurants would have to be regarded as divana within the meaning of the law, for it was the custom in these places for patrons to bring their own epium and leave the dross behind. "His Worship upheld Mr Hoggarth's point and dismissed the case. "A similar case came before Mr E. R. Hallifax, the premises in question being situated at Yaumati. This case was also

The missionary movement was being emphasised in the United Kingdom never before, and in two months' time an unprecedented world's mission conference was to be held at Edinburgh. The attendants at this conference represented almost every Protestant denomination and every Chrisinn nation on earth. They were going to try to put the subject of missions on a thoroughly business-like basis, and speaker hoped that very great things would esult. It could not be disputed that throughout the whole of China, in every province and little community, there were men and women whose lives were guided and directed by the Christian spirit. In China at the present time we were souing a great people change its ideals and leave its pursuits. It was readjusting its position in regard to the past, present and future. The missions were influenc-Chino, and it was a privilege to do anything in the way of directing this great people in the ultimate demand of its destiny. HONGKONG'S MILITARY CONTRIBUTION.

Referring to the question of Colonial garrisons and their upkeep, the United Services Gazette says that a statement in the Army estimates gives the total strength of the colonial garrisons as being 45,215, of of which South Africa absorbs 11,493, Malta 7,467, Egypt 6,027, and China (including Hengkong) 6,228. "The cost of these garrisons," the journal continues, is not readily ascertainable, but a Paper issued in 1906 gave in each case the total expenditure on their upkeep and the proportionate contributions from the Colonial and Imperial Exchequers. They that the garrison in Canada then cost £301,871, to which the Dominion contributed £22,600; in South Africa £3,069,429, to which the various South African Colonies contributed £4,000; in China £479.032, to which Hongkong contributed £119,659. Ceylon. on the other hand, paid £156,708, as against the Imperial Government's £50,295; and the Straits Settlements £208.713, against the Imperial .. £36,934. These figures have, of course, been much altered since-we have cessed, for instance, to maintain garrisons at Halifax and Esquimault-but we question whether the figuresnow standing would exhibit any more logical and reasonable distribution of cost. We still, for example, maintain a garrison of 11.493 in South Africa, which contributes nothing towards its upkeep. It is pparent that any garrison in a self-governing colony which costs the Imperial Ex-India (which left Vancouver on the evening chequer money is against political reason and sound theory.

"In regard to Colonial garrisons generally it is not easy to perceive the principle on which some of the colonies which are not self-governing contribute largely in proportion to the cost of their garrisons and others not at all. Why, for example, should the Straits Settlements contribute more than we do, and Hongkong, an enormously rich colony, no more than £100,000 for the unkeen of a garrison of more than four thousand? And why, above all others, should South Africa be favoured with a garrison of between sleven and twelvethousand Imperial troops and yet be allowed to go scot free in the matter of contribution for maintenance? To answer these questions would no doubt raise many questions of our policy towards the colonies. but that is just the reason why it would be interesting to have them answered."

CORRESPONDENCE.

AN ABSURD PETITION.

(To the Editor of the "CHIMA MAIL.") Sir,-I observe that, notwithstanding the altogether reasonable speech of His Excel. lency the Governor at the list meeting of thei Legislative Council outlining the circumstances which are actuating the Government in deciding to part with a plot of land on the Praya adjoining Royal Square, a petition has been launched with the idea of raising an agitation against this most business-like proposal. Surely we are not so hard up for excitement or diversion in Hongkong that we need seek to arouse the spathetic public to champion a hopeless cause, or, as you, Sir, aptly described it, a "forlorn hope"?

One wonders what will be the outcome of this funny little farce and how many people will be induced to append their signa tures to the momentous petition. I venture to think that if the public really knew to what plot of land the proposed sale applies there would not be half a dozen residents who would take the trouble to attach their names, without they be selfish members of the Hongkong Club absolutely indifferent what loss the Colony may suffer so long as an open spaces is preserved in front of the Club buildings. The plot in question does not come into the rectangle of Royal Square at all, and, whether it is built on or not, will not in the least degree affect the matter of laying out a garden similar to that opposite the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, ground for which has already" been fenced off.

Newspapers as a general rule feel the pulse of the public pretty well, and is significant in this case that of the four journals in the Colony have, after becoming all but one acquainted with the facts of the case, ment plans." It is nothing short of sheer, tain G. C. Cayley, of the Minotaur, the absurdity to try to stir up the public in an opposite direction, and I would suggest that no one signs the petition before he or she has actually visited the spot and has had definitely pointed out the plot over commander in 1901, and captain just four which there is such an unnecessary fuss. A satisfactory report was become the laughing-stock of Europe and presented. Mr R. Pears was elected jettison their reputation as a progressive chairman, Mr Bryce vice chairman, and Mr A. H. Two hundred buildings have assumed by the N. D. L. mail liner Kloist, which quarters and the are brigade station. It is Rubber Company's Estates, Perhentian work. Mr Rowland is one of the best years ago, and it proved so useful that there was not much difficulty in persuading the Government to put a railway station right in the heart of the Perhentian estates. The guarantee as to carnings at that station has been very considerably exceeded almost since the day it was opened

The first ordinary general meeting of the Indragiri Rubber and Guttapercha Co. Ltd. was held on April 9th at the offices of Mennes Evatt and Co ; The Arcade, Singapore. Mr Winkelmann in the chair. The Company was floated in October last wit a nominal capital of $250,000 in shares $10 each. Of this capital $200,000 has The Consul for Belgium Mr F. Janssen been issued. In the manager's report the was entertained at lunch yesterday at following figures are given:—The total was taken over by the company amounted to about 640 acres of which about '400 acres were planted with guttapercha (palaquium chlongifolium) and 240 acres with Para rubber (Heves Brasiliensis). The number of trees as taken over by the Company is approximately correct. The figures given in Mr Rowland's report were ;--15 trees 13 years old, 1,000 trees 8 years old, 14,000 trees valued owing to many vacancies.

The vacancies were found to be below: tan per cent., all of which have since been fully supplied. The guttapercha fields also showed very few vacancies which have been fully supplied. Shareholders may safely. take the number of trees as follows:-5,000 treus 12 years old, 20,000 trees years, 20,000 tress 4 years, 20,000 trees 3 years, 15,000 trees 2 years, and 20,000 mostly newly supplied. Another 460 acres have been opened up 31. and planted with Para rubber, 18 plus about 61,000 trees. Thus the total area under cultivation at present, 700 acres= about 106,000 Para rubber trees,400 acres -about 100,000 guttapercha trees. Apart from a few white auta, there is absolutely no disease on the estate; not a single trea, being attacked by fungus or fomes. Tapping operations have been commenced, and are progressing favourably. The old trees especially are flowing remarkably well. 2,000 trees are now being tapped and the number of tappable trees is increasing daily. The manager expects to get not less than 80,000 lbs. of dry rubber during the current year, and after carefully going into the matter with the tapping assistant, estimated the output of dry rubber for the next

3 years as follows :--1911 ... 15,000 trees = 24,000 lbs. 1912 ... 25,000 h = 80,000 lbs. 1913 ... 38,000 .. = 150,000 lbs.

The Chairman stated that the directors had been approached as to making a sale of the company to a London Company. "We are invited," he said, "to sell the whole of the On the cetensible plea of a short leave company's property to a London company home to kowtow at his ancestral shrines the to be formed with a nominal capital of unissued capital of £20,000, half would be reserved against an option to this company to take up same at par within a reasonable period of years and the other half would be reserved for the promoters with a like privilege." On a show of hands a unanimous disapproval of any idea of a sale was manifest.

THE DYNAMITE EXPLOSION AT KOBE.

Enormous Damage.

Kobe papers contain graphic accounts of the explosion which occurred at Mirume, in the portion of Kobs harbour set apart for the storage of explosives, at 6.45 a.m. on Thursday, April 7th. Says the Kobe Herald:-For a few seconds people thought the end of all things had come. No such | † shock or report had ever been experienced here before and the effect for the moment was staggering. . At first almost everybody thought an appalling earthquake had occurred but the concussion, so far as Kobe at least was concerned, was so slight that the more experienced attributed the terrific report to a gunpowder explosion or a possible accident at the Gas Works, " It soon became known, however, that the real cause was to be found in the Harbour, in the outlying section received for vessels where explosives are stored. There were moored one bulk (the property of Mesers C. Nickel and Co., Ltd.,) and three lighters (owned by Japanese.) In the former, which was specially fitted up for the storage of dynamite and other powerful explosives under Government supervision, there were about 5,200 eases of dynamite, gelignite, and strange to say, detonators, about 190 tons in all; and in the three lighters about 50 tons more. The explosions occurred in the hulk; and the three lighters were sunk by the upherval of the sea. The one sendo; in charge of the lighter was blown to pieces, but his was the only life lost. The damage done ou shore was very extensive, hardly a house escaping windows being smashed, doors broken, hatches of ships were lifted. There seems to have been two explosions, the first caused by the ignition of the detonators, the second by the dynamite and gelignite. The damage done at the Oriental Hotel is Tasmanian-Ports. thus described :- The force appears to have struck the great building of the Oriental Hotel, cannoned off for an instant to demolish Cornes and Company's windows aross the road (Harima Machi) and then crashed 'pto, the mas ive brick structure, rejoicing in the of power at having found a foeman worthy of its strength. Forcing entry through the three easterly windows of the Reading Room, all of which were night. torn from their brick setting, the resistless blast smashed in the window looking into the Dining Room and surged through the Grill Room and Foyer, seriously damaging the ceiling of the former and thrusting a large window bodily into the Dining Room, and smashing the heautiful coloured-glass, sky-light of the latter. Meanwhile it fractured one half of the solid swinging doors at the entrance and played havoc with the windows of the Board Room and several other chambers.

What appears to be the most serious damage of shore was wrought at the Kasugano works of the Kube Gas Company where a large three-storey dempster telescopic gas holder collapsed, letting loose 70,000 cubic feet of gas. A larger one, somewhat to the west, was not damaged. . It was fortunate the explosion

According to investigations made by the Mikago Police, twenty-two houses had their ceilings and roof beams smashed in, while 2,244 houses had their doors and shoji broken. Telephone wires were broken at four places. (The number of wounded (severely and slightly) was sixty-five.

In the jurisdiction of the Kohe Police the number of houses damaged was about 15,000, the amount of damage being estimated of Y160,000; eight-three persons

In the jurisdiction of the Kobe Water Police, the total damages is estimated at about Y100,000 including the cost of the explosives lost and boats destroyed. One person was killed and another wounded. the damages in districts under the jurisdiction of the Aicibashi and Hiogo Police were added to the above, the tota amount would be enormous." The damage to the Kobe Gas Company was at one time estimated at some Y200,000 but as the result of further investigation it is said to be considerably less.
